DESCRIPTION

The Bianco Mediterraneo is born in the Pascoli Alti, an unspoiled area located on the southern slopes of Mount Calamita, in the wildest and most enchanting part of the Island of Elba. The vineyards are situated 300 meters above sea level, in a unique position where the iron-rich, mineral soil, constant sea breezes, and dry climate create perfect conditions for vine cultivation. The poor fertility of the soil encourages limited but high-quality production, enhancing the wine's freshness, sapidity, and a distinct Mediterranean character.

VINIFICATION

After careful manual harvesting, the grapes undergo a gentle pressing to preserve their freshness and aromas. The must, following a delicate racking, is fermented at a controlled temperature between 18° and 20°C, allowing for the development of intense aromas and good aromatic complexity.

AGEING

After fermentation, the wine remains in contact with fine lees for several months, a process that enhances its structure and roundness. Bottling takes place in spring, followed by bottle aging that perfects its balance and elegance.

TASTING NOTES

Colour: Bright straw yellow.

Aroma: Notes of citrus, white flowers and a pronounced minerality.

Taste: Fresh, savoury, with a long citrus finish.

PAIRINGS

Perfect with seafood and shellfish dishes, seafood tartare, and delicate Mediterranean first courses, such as spaghetti with clams and seafood risotto. It pairs wonderfully with fresh cheeses like buffalo mozzarella, fresh ricotta, and stracciatella, as well as gourmet salads and light appetizers, enhancing every bite with its lively freshness. Also excellent with semi-aged cheeses like Provolone del Monaco DOP and Caciocavallo Silano DOP. For meat dishes, it is ideal with roast turkey with aromatic herbs and pork tenderloin, perfectly complementing the richness and aromatic flavours of the meat with the wine's freshness. For meat dishes, it is ideal with roast turkey with aromatic herbs and pork tenderloin, which pair perfectly thanks to the freshness of the wine, which balances the rich and aromatic flavours of the meat.
